MATT. LONG TIME RESIDENT DIES

Nelson F. Harriman, 82, of Mattapoisett died last Thursday after a long illness. A member of the Board of Water Commissioners for the past 32 years, Mr. Harriman also has served the town of Mattapoisett as a selectman, auditor, sealer of weights and measures.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church.

He is survived by a son, Nelson F. Harriman, Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Morgan; and six grandchildren, all of Mattapoisett.

The older residents of the town are thinning now and Mr. Harriman was long a familiar face, likeable and full of fun. His good humor and pleasant conversation were always bright intervals in the daily life of the town.

Time and again, the voters of Mattapoisett expressed their confidence and satisfaction with his service to the town by returning him to office in elections, spanning most of his life. Even in his advanced years, Mr. Harriman was elected to his post of Water Commis-

Mr. Roland Thompson and Mr. Earle Wilson were recognized by Master Councilor Morgan as Chapter Councilors for the Order.

A social time followed with delicious refreshments served by Mr. and Mrs. Earle Wilson, assisted by members of the Grange.

The lecturer announced the next Grange meeting, Thursday, December 15th, will be a Christmas party. An exchange of 50¢ gifts will be part of the program.

A Penny Sale was held by the Home and Community Service chairman, Mrs. Ruby Barber, and her committee.

Visitors were present from Fairhaven, Marion, Rochester, Smith Mills, Wamsutta, Acushnet and New Bedford.

PTC MEETING

The Mattapoisett Parent-Teachers Club will meet Thursday evening at Old Hammondtown School cafeteria. The doors will open at 7:30 P.M.; and promptly at 8:00 P.M., Dr. Allan B. Stimson, New Bedford pediatrician, will speak on the developmental stages of children in grades one through six, and the problems occurring in these stages.

The December program committee has planned Christmas decorations, refreshments, door prizes and music.

There will be a business meeting, which holds a surprise that should be of interest to all parents and teachers.

HELP THE VOLUNTEERS TO HELP OTHERS

Major Hal Hughes of the Volunteers of America said today it's that wonderful time of year again. A time of good cheer and a time to think of others.

In 1966, the Volunteers of America began its 70th year with a stepped-up program of assistance to make this Christmas a meaningful one for the needy, homeless and friendless, regardless of race, color or religion.

Once again, collection boxes will appear at markets and shopping centers to receive your contributions to pay for Christmas dinners and other help for the needy.

Without the Volunteers of America, there would be many sad Christmas Days for many in need. Instead, there is warm clothing for children, food for hungry families and shelter for the homeless.

The Volunteers of America will count it a privilege to be your messenger of good cheer to these unfortunate people, but need your help and support.

Major Hal Hughes further stated that last year, with your help, 250 families were provided with Christmas baskets. Your generous gift this year will again bring sunshine and cheer to many needy families who, without your generosity, would have a bleak Christmas Season indeed.

This is the best time of the year to remember those less fortunate than yourself--and to help them with your contribution.

Years Ago

By C. M.

125 Years Ago -- 1841

One fascinating and interesting sight which Mattapoisett-dwellers of the shipbuilding days could witness, but which we can not, was the launching of 300 and 400 ton ships. Of course the vessels were not rigged, but the gleaming new hulls, 100 to 120 ft. long, loomed above the spectators, and a feeling of expectancy rippled through the crowd.

At the height of the tide the workmen finished greasing the ways; then with mauls they drove in the wedges to raise the vessel out of its chocks; and then--the first quiver of movement followed by the long graceful glide down into the water, the stern splashing as it clove its way. (Later, after the railroad was built, whenever a ship was launched in the early summer evenings, a special excursion train was run so that people from New Bedford and Fairhaven could ride over and see the launching.)

In the summer of 1841, when in June there were six ships and one brig on the stocks all at once, Mattapoisett folk had all the opportunities they wanted and on two occasions they could have almost watched two vessels being launched at the same time. On August 16 Dr. Robbins records:

"Two fine ships were launched within a few minutes of each other."

One month later, September 16:

"Two fine ships launched here this morning."

Of the eight ships built on the waterfront during this year, all but two were built for Nantucket firms, and all without exception had their share of excitement and adventure. To pick at random, the ship Harrison on her third voyage from New Bedford to the Pacific had to put in at Sydney, New South Wales (Australia) in 1848 for extensive repairs "having been driven ashore in Apia Harbor, in April last during a heavy N.W. gale of 36 hours duration. At the time she drove she had two anchors out, topmasts struck and yards down. When got off again, it was found her false keel was gone, rudder unshipped,.....the vessel leaky, also that the oil was leaking from the casks."

The Harrison was repaired, sailed home around the Horn, made two more voyages, and then was sold to Honolulu at the outbreak of the Civil War.

The Ship Edward Cary, after sailing five Pacific voyages from Nantucket, was sold to San Francisco and then met a fiery end by being burned by the Confederate Raider Shenandoah at Ascension Island where Captain Baker had put in to recruit. He and the crew were left on the island for six months with a barrel of pork and a barrel of bread.

They were attacked by natives, but managed to beat them off. Then the attitude of the natives underwent a reversal; and the native chief, who was too fat to walk, offered to adopt Captain Baker, make him his heir, and give him 15 wives. Captain Baker refused. Shortly afterwards the captain and crew were rescued by a U. S. warship.

Captain James Snow wrote in his almanac on August 21, 125 years ago, "Ship David Paddock left harbor." When a new vessel was completed, her owners would send a skeleton crew to Mattapoisett to pick up the vessel and sail her to her new home port. The David Paddock was sailed to Nantucket, outfitted, and made a successful four year Pacific voyage. But her second voyage ended in shipwreck. She had just succeeded in completely filling her hold while cruising in the narrow, northernmost arm of the Sea of Japan between the mainland and the long narrow island of Sakhalin now owned by the U.S.S.R. She had turned southward and was headed for La Perouse Strait, between Sakhalin and Hokkaido, the northernmost island of present day Japan, in order to get into the open Pacific. Let the old newspaper account tell the rest:

"Wreck of the Ship David Paddock of Nantucket.

On the 20th day of July (1848) at half-past 9 o'clock in the evening, this vessel being full, and bound out of the Papan sea, in North lat. 45 28 and East long. 141.5, struck on a sunken rock not laid down on any chart. The ship's company took to the boats and lay under the lee of the vessel until the morning, when she had six inches of water on the cabin floor, but she could not be got off, although the spars were cut away. Land was discovered about 15 miles off, which proved to be Feeshee Island. They landed upon the south-west Cape of Saghalein, and remained there three days.

The inhabitants treated them with great kindness, but would not allow them to go back into the country. A house and food were furnished gratuitously, and when they left they were presented with 4 or 500 lbs. of rice. The inhabitants were few, who appeared to be Tartars under a Japanese governor.

After three days residence, they all left in their boats to cross the Matsmoi Straits, but fell in with the (whaleship) Globe, Daggett, of New Bedford in the passage. All hands were saved." Some of her oil saved by other ships.

The toil of Mattapoisett muscles and the craft of Mattapoisett brains were left on ledges, reefs, and rocky shores in the farthermost seas of the globe.

The Sippican XBT System, comprised of several types of bathythermal probes, and probe launching/recording equipment, is a new concept in oceanographic instrumentation. It will replace the less efficient and more costly mechanical BT systems. One of the features of the expendable instrumentation is that a ship, no longer had to slow down or stop for ocean temperature measurements, but can obtain automatic recordings without changing its mode of operation.

The Sippican XBT System is now in use aboard naval, research and commercial vessles, and is proving its value for oceanographic date collection, anti-submarine warfare and other applications.

CHRISTMAS SEALS FIGHT
RESPIRATORY DISEASES

The 1966 Christmas Seal Campaign opened officially on November 15, 1966. Christmas Seals are being sent to residents of the county, along with a message explaining the work that has been accomplished by the association during the past year in its efforts to wage a battle against tuberculosis and control other respiratory diseases. All were urged to support the campaign in order that the work of the association may be continued in the coming year.

Tuberculosis has been around to bedevil man since ever man was. For centuries it came like a killer snow, the Great White Plague.

Yet in our time, for the first time, TB's threat is changing. Today, TB would have to be colored gray. It's become a shadowy area of menace and control.

Some, including a few of the most eminent TB experts, say TB can be wiped out in this country in this generation. And eradication of the disease is the goal of the Plymouth County Health Association.

This 60th Seal Campaign fights tuberculosis, but, more recently, is also fighting other respiratory diseases, such as emphysema, influenza, asthma, bronchitis, etc., which are among the top 4 killers in the United States.

In our own Plymouth County last year 40 people with active tuberculosis were admitted to the regional tuberculosis hospital. A significant number of other respiratory conditions have been found through our community and industrial X-ray surveys - and every year approximately 29,000 children are tuberculin tested in our public and parochial schools.

All this work is possible because of the contributions the residents of Plymouth County give to our association through Christmas Seals every year.

A MORE BEAUTIFUL WAY OF LOOKING AT IT

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has undertaken the task of organizing and promoting a full scale "Keep America Beautiful" campaign. The first lady was seen only a few weeks ago picking up litter in a public park with the aid of her personal secretary. Now, if the First Lady of the Land is so enthusiastic about this program and diligent enough to stoop for papers in a public park, certainly the people of New England Telephone Company wish to take an active interest in the campaign.

With the aid of an ingenious new cable laying machine we are doing just that. As the first in a program designed to spread throughout New England, last week an underground cable was laid on Cable Road, so named because it is where the first transatlantic cable from France met American soil in 1879.

The Henkel McCoy Cable Plow, as the machine is called, not only lays cable faster than the former back-hoe method but is neater about the job. A scenic conscious motorist passing through the area an hour after the cable was laid would have trouble distinguishing the job site. The cable plow is a three in one genious: It furrows the earth, lays the cable and back fills, all just one operation.

New England Telephone Company again focuses its interest on a better American way of life and this time a more beautiful way of

HOW TO CUT HEAT COSTS:

5 tips that can help you get more warmth from your heating oil dollar

1. Set your thermostat back when you go to bed at night—save significantly on your heating oil bills.

2. Be sure your burner has sufficient air. Oil needs lots of air to burn properly. Don't block off air supply to burner. Don't allow dust and lint to accumulate on air intake openings.

3. Don't block hot air vents or cold air return ducts with furniture.

4. Let us clean and adjust your oil burner. Then help keep it clean by using new clean-burning Shell Heating Oil. Shell Heating Oil is now specially climatized for this area.

5. Stop air leaks around poorly fitted windows by using weather-stripping or storm windows.
